

'Final Offer' To Reds

Communies Reject It Outright With Scornful Blast UN Calls 'Garbage'

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allies today laid out the line of a "final offer" for a Korean peace conference but the Communists rejected it outright in a scornful propaganda blast, the chief U. S. delegate termed "garbage."

The Red action effectively bypassed a potential Allied problem—South Korea's refusal to accept part of the U. S. proposal.

South Korea's delegate refused to attend the meeting as U. S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean delivered the new plan.

Dean's offer nailed down loose ends of previous Allied proposals and suggestions.

"I told them (the Reds) this was it and we would stand on it," Dean told newsmen. "This is our final offer."

The Communists, reading from a 16-page prepared statement, termed Dean's offering "absurd and ridiculous."

An Allied spokesman said the Red trade "was the roughest we have heard here."

Dean said:

"It is very obvious that they have stopped negotiating."

He told the newsmen there is an implied time limit to his proposal but said: "We still stay here for what we consider a reasonable time." He gave no indication how long that might be.

The diplomats meet again Wednesday (9 p.m. EST).

Meanwhile, 30 more South Korean prisoners of war refused to return home after talking with officers of their homeland.

They made the interview score so far 190 to 0 in favor of communism.

Another 30 South Koreans were called for interviews Wednesday (7 p.m. Tuesday EST).

At the present rate, the 138 remaining South Koreans will be finished early next week and then the 22 Americans and 1 Briton will be called.

Terms of the new U. S. proposal on the peace conference include:

1. Russia could sit in without being labeled a belligerent on either side or a neutral, but would insist they vote with the Communist side.

2. "Some or all" of the non-belligerent countries who have "current" experience in Korea could "attend as neutrals" without voting rights. They could talk on subjects under debate but could not bring up subjects. These could include India, Sweden, Switzerland, Pakistan and Chile and Communist satellites Poland and Czechoslovakia.

3. The meeting would open at Geneva within 28 to 42 days after the present sessions end. Dean has indicated he might accept another site—but not Panmunjom.

4. Sessions would be open to the press except on agreement by both sides.

The South Korean government issued a statement saying it would not accept "neutrals" at the peace conference. The South Koreans object strongly to India which they call "pro-Communist."

Despite the trouble with aging South Korean President Syngman Rhee, Dean said he was "confident" that we could be able to iron out our differences.

However, Dean said his difference with Rhee seemed academic in the light of the Red rejection.

Former Principal Dies

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Franklin S. Lamar, 83, a former principal of Manual Training high school, died today after an illness of several months. He retired in 1943.

Green Christmas?

We'll settle for a green Christmas instead of a white one, if we can't have snow. And we'll take a winter with more days like this one—with a few rainy days in between. Then, when spring comes, it can turn nice and stay that way.

Mostly cloudy and colder tonight and Wednesday. Low tonight near 35. High Wednesday near 40.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 46; 58 at 1 p. m., and 59 at 2 p. m.

One year ago today here high 61, low 56. Two years ago high 45, low 31.

To Recommend Four St. Louis Paper Strike Settlement

Leader of Walkout Will Ask Union To Accept Terms

BULLETIN
NEW YORK (AP)—New York's 11 day newspaper strike ended Tuesday.

NEW YORK (AP)—The leader of the 11-day New York newspaper strike said today officers of the striking photo-engravers union would recommend acceptance of a federal mediators' formula to end the walkout.

He said they would recommend acceptance even though the strikers' negotiators were split on the proposal.

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal mediator said today he is presenting to striking photo-engravers and six New York newspaper publishers a formula which he hopes will "settle all problems."

His statement and the calling of a meeting of the strikers for 1 p. m. raised hopes for an early end to the 11 day newspaper tie-up.

Walter A. Magglio, general counsel of the federal mediation and conciliation service, indicated the formula will go beyond the photo-engravers' wage dispute and cover problems posed by other printing craft unions.

Members of the other unions have declined to cross the photo-engravers' picket lines around the six strike plants.

Unions such as the typographers, stenographers, pressmen, mailers and paper handlers have negotiations pending with the publishers.

Magglio did not disclose the nature of the formula.

Top negotiators for the newspaper and the striking AFL photo-engravers were with Magglio and posed together for news photographers for the first time since the strike started Nov. 28. It is now in its 11th day.

Details of the formula were not disclosed, but there were indications it hinged on creation of a fact-finding board.

Magglio's announcement came after hours-long efforts to settle the wage dispute.

Shortly after midnight Denis M. Burke, president of the striking local, and William Mapel, president of the Publishers Assn. of New York City, went into consultation.

Burke said that if his union's bargaining committee accepted the mediator's proposal he would attempt to call a union membership meeting for today. If the strikers at this meeting ratified the plan, Burke added, pickets could be called off within an hour.

Kremlin Gets Bid Of Big 3

Western Powers Toss Challenge For Peace Pacts In Soviet Laps

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—The Big Three challenged the Kremlin today to negotiate peace settlements in Europe and Asia and to "solve the stubborn problems" of a world too long in conflict.

In a final Bermuda communique that occasionally rang with Churchillian prose—but omitted any concrete solutions for the key problems of Western unity, U. S. President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Laniel announced:

1. They are sending notes to Russia for an early Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Berlin which they hope will make progress towards the unification of Germany and independence for Austria.

2. They will continue to strive for a Korean political conference which they hope will lead to both a Korean settlement with the Asian Communists and "progress in restoring more normal conditions in the Far East and Southeast Asia."

3. They will continue to struggle for "peace and stability" in Indochina, where the "valiant forces" of France and the native states are making an important contribution to the "defense of the free world."

4. They hope for a "peaceful" liberation of the Red-ruled East European countries and reject as unjustified "the present division of Europe."

5. The three Western Powers will "lose no opportunity for easing the tensions that beset the world and for reassuring all nations that they have no cause to fear that the strength of the West will be invoked in any cause of wrongful violence."

The communique sounded a high note of Western unity and common purpose, providing a background for Eisenhower's appearance at the United Nations later today for an address on the "Perils of the World in This Atomic Age."

The communique at several points strongly affirmed the basic unity and common purpose of the Western Powers and announced agreement "on various measures to solve common problems."

However, as to how far unity on outstanding practical problems really was strengthened. There also was no indication to what extent existing disagreements over such issues as relations with Communist China and the British-Egyptian dispute over the Suez Canal zone had been resolved or merely better understood.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles undoubtedly scored a point for their attitude toward the Kremlin rule in securing British and French support for the "hope" for the liberation of Eastern Europe. The offer of reassurance to all nations against aggression by Russia appeared to be a gain for Churchill's idea of giving Russia some sort of security guarantees.

A British informant said Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel also agreed to resist any Russian move to the Berlin foreign ministers meeting to set up a Big Five conference, including Red China.

The British source said the Western three also provisionally set up the following basic principles for any Korean settlement:

1. Free Korea—free sections for a single government for both North and South Korea.

2. Withdrawal of all foreign troops within five years of "unification."

3. The future neutrality of Korea to be guaranteed by "interested parties."

Ask Donations of Clothing Here—SAFB to Airlift Gift Clothing To Orphanage In Seoul, Korea

The Sedalia Air Force Base personnel is going to help Army Sgt. Meredith Taylor, Knob Noster, who is in Korea, play Santa Claus to the Sam-Ae Children's Orphanage in Seoul.

Maj. Patrick J. Pomphy, information service officer at SAFB, announced arrangements are being made to air-lift to Seoul some 400 pounds of clothing collected at Knob Noster the past two weeks.

But that isn't all. Their plans also include air-lift of additional contributions of clothing to be collected in Sedalia, Warrensburg and other communities in the area of the base.

This is an answer to a plea of Sgt. Taylor, with the 68th AAA Gun Battalion, who wrote his wife, Argente, recently asking that she send discarded clothes for an orphanage which his unit is supporting. The 68th Battalion adopted the Sam-Ae Children's Home in October, 1951, and has been its principal means of support ever since. Faced with the severe Korean winter ahead, soldiers have been writing home, urging their families to send clothing.

Mrs. Taylor carried the plea to her church group to enlist their aid. The townspeople went to work and accumulated more than 400 pounds of clothing, but they were almost forced to abandon the project when faced with the expense of mailing such a bundle.

Then the Air Force stepped in to offer its facilities. Arrangements were made by Sedalia Air Force Base officers, with the Second Air Force Command at Barksdale AFB, Shreveport, La., for permission to fly the clothes to the West Coast. There they will be turned over to the Military Air Transport Command, which command has offered to fly the shipment to Seoul when it has available space.

Now with the problem of shipping solved, Sedalia, Warrensburg and other communities are being invited to join in the effort. The officers are also making arrangements to accept financial aid, this to be sent through the financial channels for necessary financial support of the institution.

When Santa Claus' special flight is sent from the Sedalia Air Force Base, to go to Travis AFB at San Francisco, Calif., Santa Claus will be on hand at a replica of the 1947 jet bomber, wishing the Christmas and a happy and safe trip. The replica B-27 is the same as was in the Sedalia Christmas parade and which thrilled thousands of children.

An appropriate program will be held when the campaign has been completed and the air-lift starts for Sam-Ae Children's Orphanage at Seoul.

Collection points have been set up in both Warrensburg and Sedalia. Here in Sedalia, those caring to leave bundles of good clean clothing can take them to Fire Station No. 2 at 211 South Kentucky.

Trucks from the base will pick up the bundles and take them to the base. These pickups will be made regularly, and clothing of all types will be appreciated.

The deadline for donations has been set at 10 a. m. Saturday, Dec. 12.

An exact copy of a letter written to the commander of the 68th AAA Gun Battalion, of which copies were sent to the members of their outfits to be sent back to their homes in the States, is on page 4.

The City Council Monday night voted parking space for the City Cab Co., in the 100 block on East Fifth by calling for an ordinance to be drawn eliminating three parking meters, one on the south side of the street and two on the north side of the street. The City Cab Co., is moving to its new office space at 110½ East Fifth between the Automobile Club of Missouri office and the Griddle.

The City Cab Co., has been located at 220 East Third.

No parking zones at two locations were introduced for the first time by ordinance, one on the west side of Massachusetts at Third and Massachusetts for the Montgomery Ward Co., warehouse, and the other on West Main in the 600 block on the north side of the street. These ordinance will receive final passage at the next regular meeting.

Final passage was also made on an ordinance which changes the name of Baker Ave. from Third to Main to Limit.

Sewer Completed
City Engineer James I. Collins reported the completion of construction of a sewer in District 97 by the J. T. Atkinson Construction Co., at a cost of $1,077.75. The report was approved by the Council.

Councilman Arthur Schwarz and John Carroll of the Finance Committee, destroyed six $10 coupons on the Public Sewer coupons on the Park Improvement bonds, a total of $120. The coupons were burned.

The package liquor license of L. H. Kroenke, 112 South Ohio, was renewed by the Council.

Must Repair Street Cuts
Public utilities companies, and plumbers are to be notified they must repair cuts made in the city streets, and put them into as good or better condition than when the cuts were made in accordance with a motion presented by Councilman C. L. Kelley. Councilman Kelley reported there were numerous street cuts in the city streets which have not been repaired and are in deplorable condition.

"I want the ordinance enforced," he said, "there is any way to enforce it."

In his motion Kelley called attention to bonds which are supposed to be filed by the Missouri Public Service Co., the City Water Co., and plumbers which guarantee repairs. Then said he wanted some enforcement powers granted the city inspector to compel the repairs to be made or file against the bonds. The motion was unanimously passed.

During his talk Kelley reported he found the Missouri Public Service Co., had done the best job in making necessary repairs of such cuts.

L. W. Dickman, city building inspector, reported he had checked about 100 and found several bad cuts. He also said he learned where one cut had been made without a permit having been issued, but at the present had no power to enforce prosecution. This power is being granted through the motion which was passed.

City Councillor Chester Wolfe reported he would upon the suggestion of the motion.

Arrow-Pierced Duck Survives Removal

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A White Pekin duck, pierced from stem to stern by a vandal's arrow, was in good condition today after the lead-tipped shaft was removed from its body.

The duck, owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Diffey of St. Louis County, carried the arrow with it for about 12 hours before it was removed by a member of the animal protective association.

The feathered end of the arrow was broken off and the shaft, through any vital organs, was then pulled out.

Two ducks in the flock were found wounded and several arrows were located in the grass nearby.

Lee Cass and Symphony Give Music Lovers One of Finest Concerts In Sedalia Monday

The comparative small audience which attended Monday night's concert by the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Abe Rosenthal and with bass-baritone Lee Cass as guest artist, was treated to what probably will prove to be the best performance of the season. Those who did not attend certainly picked the wrong time to stay away.

Cass showed from the start that he has the poise and self-confidence that comes from considerable experience. He was given much praise after his debut in Washington, D. C., he recently had a lead role in an NBC television opera performance and later this month he is scheduled to sing with the Boston Symphony.

On Monday night he demonstrated his operatic ability with two selections in the first half of the program—"Dormio Solo Nel Mio Mio Regal" from Verdi's "Don Carlo" and "Mephistopheles' Serenade" from Gounod's "Faust." The latter is a role he terms his favorite and which he has done on tour with the Charles Wagner Opera Company.

Cass was fortunate in having as his accompanist Miss Mabel DeWitt, 717 East Ninth. After a single rehearsal Sunday night, she provided Mr. Cass with a proficient piano background despite the fact that included in his program were some difficult pieces. This has not always been the case with accompanists brought here by the artists in previous concerts, and the audience chuckled to see Cass knees doubled up on the little stool and his right foot stamping out the beat as he had a good time all by himself at the keyboard. Coupled with a booming voice with a great range of tone and strength, it made for a grand concert.

The symphony orchestra started the whole evening off properly with a fine performance of the Raymond Overture to "The Queen's Secret" by Ambrose Thomas. It was the best opening performance of the season so far, with the string section in particular coming through with some good work.

Mr. Cass then sang his two operatic selections and the orchestra closed the first half of the program with a medley of songs from Sigmund Romberg's "Blossom Time." This was dedicated to the memory of the late Prof. W. B. Hert, long a music figure in Sedalia.

The second half opened with the Ballet Suite from "Le Lac des Cygnes" by Tchaikovsky and was very well handled by the orchestra. After Mr. Cass' second part of the program, the orchestra closed with "Knightsbridge March" from Eric Coates' "London Suite," in which again the string section performed admirably.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club served as ushers. They were Mrs. Albert Dirck, Mrs. Cecil Peoples, Miss Marjorie Rector, Miss Rose Marie Reed, Mrs. J. F. Schumacher and Mrs. Ike L. Warren.

The last number was a rollicking song in which Cass accompanied himself at the piano while Miss DeWitt remained offstage. The audience chuckled to see Cass

Atom For Peace

Ike, In His Speech Today, Asks Shift In 'Fearful Trend'; Wants a Commission

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—President Eisenhower today called on the world's atomic powers to reverse "the fearful trend" of the atomic arms race and to set up under the United Nations an international atomic energy agency to develop the peaceful potential of the atom.

In a dramatic speech made against the background of the Bermuda conference, the President declared "the Soviet Union must, of course, be one" of the nations participating in any such project.

The Chief Executive then declared he would be prepared to submit to Congress with every expectation of approval any such program as would achieve these four purposes:

"FIRST—Encourage worldwide investigation of the most effective peacetime uses of fissionable material;

"SECOND—Begin to diminish the potential destructive power of the world's atomic stockpiles;

"THIRD—Allow all peoples of all nations to see that, in this enlightened age, the great power of the earth, those of the East and the West, are interested in human aspirations, first and foremost, rather than in building up the armaments of war.

"FOURTH—Open up a new channel for peaceful discussion and initiate at least a new approach to the many difficult problems that must be solved in the public and private conferences if the world is to shake off the inertia imposed by fear and make positive progress toward peace."

The months ahead, Eisenhower solemnly told the United Nations assembly, "will be fraught with fateful decisions."

"In this assembly," he said, "in the capitals and military headquarters of the world, in the hearts of men everywhere, the decisions which will lead this world out of fear and into peace."

He pledged the United States, with "its determination to help solve the fearful atomic dilemma," to devote its entire heart and mind to find the way by which the mankind's inventiveness of men shall not be dedicated to his death, but consecrated to his life.

The President addressed the U. N. Assembly one hour after arriving from Bermuda, where the Big Three conference concluded early today.

Delegates from both sides of the Iron Curtain awaited his address. One high diplomatic source had predicted the speech would be sensational.

Eisenhower reminded his international audience at the outset that he had come to them directly from the meeting with Prime Minister Churchill, Premier Laniel and their foreign ministers.

He then assured the United Nations that he would use the office of President "to assure you that the government of the United States will remain steadfast in its support of this body."

He made clear that he was addressing his remarks to all the peoples and governments of every nation by saying that he was expressing "thoughts I had originally planned to say primarily to the people of the world."

But he said that the world's danger is shared by all, and the hope of lifting it should be shared by all. He added that the U. N. Assembly provides the most "appropriate audience."

The President said he had to speak in a language which he would have preferred never to use—"the new language . . . of atomic warfare."

He then reported that since the first atomic test explosion set off by the United States July 16, 1945, this country has conducted 43 atomic test explosions and the power of atomic bombs has grown steadily.

"Atomic bombs today are more than 25 times as powerful as the weapons with which the atomic age dawned," he said, "while hydrogen weapons are in the ranges of millions of tons of TNT's equivalent."

"Today the United States stock pile of atomic weapons which, of course, increases daily, exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane in every gun in every theater of war through all the years of World War II."

White House Receives 24,400 Telegrams On Trade With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today it had received 24,400 telegrams in response to the appeal of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) that the public ask President Eisenhower to stop aid to nations trading with Red China.

Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary, said the number of letters probably will approximate that of the telegrams by the time all deliveries are made today.

No breakdown was given for either the telegrams or letters. Last Saturday, the White House said the returns up to then were running more than two to one in support of McCarthy.

Mamie Cancels All Appointments, Chest Cold Keeps Her In Bed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced today that Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower has cancelled all appointments because of a chest cold.

The First Lady returned from Augusta, Ga., where the Eisenhowers spent Thanksgiving, with a cold. She got no better and she has been in bed since Sunday. She is having no callers.

Argue Today To High Court On Segregation

WASHINGTON (U)—Attorneys argue before the Supreme Court today whether the 14th Amendment, adopted after the Civil War, gives that court the power now to order children educated together in public schools, regardless of race.

One round of pro and con debate on public school segregation, at times charged with emotion, was heard yesterday. The clashing arguments wind up tomorrow but the court's decision may be months off.

Legal questions for the court to decide are: Does the "separate but equal" doctrine it laid down in an 1896 transportation case still apply? Has the court the power to order states to integrate their segregated school systems? Did the 14th Amendment contemplate outlawing segregation?

Negro attorneys, opening the arguments yesterday, asked the high court to outlaw segregation, contending the "separate but equal" doctrine cannot apply.

White-haired John W. Davis, speaking for South Carolina and Virginia, replied that the doctrine has been approved in the courts and the legislatures for so many years that it should be regarded as no longer open to debate.

T. Justin Moore of Richmond, also speaking for Virginia, told the court that laws passed by Congress immediately after the Civil War did not provide that attending public schools is a civil right.

Moore, who spoke only briefly before the court adjourned for the day, was in line to open today's session.

Following him, the U. S. government, through Asst. Atty. Gen. L. Lee Rankin, will tell the court it has the power to outlaw segregation. The government is not urging outright that the court abolish segregation, but contends the court has that power and that the purpose of the 14th Amendment was "to secure for Negroes full and complete equality and to abolish all legal distinctions based on race or color."

Still awaiting argument are segregation cases involving the District of Columbia, Delaware and Kansas.

There are 17 states with compulsory public school segregation and three which permit it. All of them presumably would be affected by a decision against segregation.

Moore said 10½ million of the 15 million Negroes in the United States live in areas where compulsory segregation is the rule.

In answer to a question from the bench as to what should be done if integration were ordered, he said, "The parties should certainly be allowed to present a plan rather than have the court hand down a plan."

There has been discussion of ways by which a gradual change-over to integrated schools might be accomplished if segregation were banned.

Some officials in Southern states have spoken of relinquishing public education to a system of private schools if segregation were outlawed in state systems.

The 80-year-old Davis, 1924 Democratic nominee for president, seemed on the verge of tears as he wound up an hour's argument against striking down segregation.

He contended that neither Congress, in submitting the 14th Amendment, nor the states, which ratified it, understood that it abolished segregation in the public schools.

Thurgood Marshall, a Negro attorney representing the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, argued that the 14th Amendment specifically forbids segregation.

This amendment, the crux of most of the arguments, was proposed in 1866 and declared ratified in 1868. It says no state may

Bob Thomas In Hollywood—

Debra, the Kissless Starlet, Out to Prove She Can Be Sexy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Debra Paget, who won fame as the starlet who had never been kissed, is going all-out to prove she can be sexy.

All-out is a good way to describe the costume I found her wearing on the set of "Princess of the Nile," a Leonard Goldstein idyll of 13th-century Egypt. Nearly all of the costume was out. The only thing left was 60 pounds of fancy chains which did little to obstruct the view.

"I do a dance in this outfit," explained Debra, rattling a chain here and there. "I don't know if it will end up in the picture, because the Johnston office hasn't okayed the costume yet."

"Gwen Verdon wore a similar costume for a dance in 'David and Bathsheba.' But the censors made them paint her legs gold, like the rest of the outfit, so it wouldn't seem so revealing."

Debra wasn't painted. It was all over her. And she glowed with happiness about her loanout role. She plays a dual part as an Egyptian princess and a tavern dancer. That makes her twice as sexy.

"I hope this will prove to the studio (20th Century-Fox) that I can play sexy roles," she said. "You know how it is. I've been there six years and they still think of me as a 14-year-old they don't realize I'm grown up and 20."

"The only fairly sexy part I had was in 'Stars and Stripes Forever,' in which I got to wear a pair of tights. But in the last two pictures

Mr. and Mrs. Garrison saw the accident from an upstairs window and rushed down immediately. Mr. Garrison poured a bucket of water on her and Mrs. Garrison pulled the burning clothes off her.

Dr. Jackie Gunn, Versailles, was called and dressed her burns immediately.

He made another call at the residence later in the evening and announced that she was resting well under the influence of a sedative. He said they hope to give her a blood transfusion Tuesday.

He denied anyone due process and equal protection of the laws, nor abridge any person's privileges or immunities because of race.

Urging the court to abandon the "separate but equal" doctrine and outlaw segregation, Marshall said: "No two schools are equal."

That is the trouble with the doctrine of separate but equal facilities," Davis argued Congress didn't intend the amendment to eliminate segregation, but instead clearly meant to leave the question exclusively in the province of the states.

"Neither this court nor any other court can sit in the chairs of the Legislature of South Carolina and mould its educational system," Davis told the nine justices.

He said the state "has the sole power to educate its citizens," adding: "South Carolina is confident of its good faith and intention to produce equality for all of its children, regardless of their race or color."

Dr. Fuller Speaks at Sorosis On 'Our Hope', Which Is God

"There are many hopeful notes today in the air," said Dr. Charles Edward Fuller, professor in the theology and church history at the University of Missouri, Columbia, in his talk Monday afternoon before Sorosis.

Dr. Fuller chose for his Christmas message, "Our Hope", and he pointed out that when people could get together and think together without the line of dividing, then there is hope.

The speaker went on to say that when he was in the Holy Land he talked to an Arab who said: "You know who killed your Lord—the Jews killed your Lord," and there was hatred in his voice. But in Chicago, Dr. Fuller pointed out, the head of a great Jewish organization said, "The thing I hate most is that they call us the Christ killers." There, said Dr. Fuller, is the other side of the story.

Dr. Fuller, who did not tell his own religious preference, said that he talked to a group of Baptist youths at a camp and the week before he had made the same talk to a group of Presbyterian boys at the same camp. He had made the same talk to a Jewish sorority, and he had talked in New York to a group of Catholic missionaries. His father, he said, was a Roman Catholic, but that was not his own religion.

There is hope, Dr. Fuller believes, when a man can speak before that many different religious groups, when people of all faiths can gather together and talk and there is no division.

Let us destroy religion, all religious faiths, remove the Bible from our thinking, all laws that have come out of religious thinking of the past, the social and civic laws, and what would we have? asked Dr. Fuller.

Religion has inspired all great art, and although the Jewish people have not put their religion in art, they have given the world some of the greatest poetry. The very elements of music started with religion, he said, and drama, science, everything we love, everything we have.

Dr. Fuller went on to tell how all religions, from the beginning of the world, were founded on a belief of a supreme power and all things in life were based on this inner feeling. The Africans are not barbarians, he said, for he had studied the native culture and knew that the deep laws of their faith had brought art, music with the greatest harmony as they played their instruments in the dark. He had seen their dances, too, and all of this was a revelation of their religion.

We set down moral laws, Dr. Fuller said, to define a pattern of life inspired by men who look down upon life with intelligence and look up for guidance, and

Woman Breaks World Mark, Circles Globe

CHICAGO (AP) A young brunette flew into Chicago early today to break by eight hours the record time for rounding the world as a commercial air line passenger.

"It was the best weekend trip I ever had," said Pamela Martin as she stepped from a United Air Lines at Chicago's Midway Airport. She started her trip there at noon Friday.

She had covered the route in 90 hours and 39 minutes. She had only 10 hours sleep along the way but told waiting newsmen she felt "fresh as a daisy."

The 23-year-old advertising copywriter said she was "too excited to sleep much" and she looked forward to making the trip again—but with this difference: next time she will take time out "to see those cities."

For the benefit of news photographers, she kissed the pilot of the United Air Lines DC8B which made up 34 minutes on the final leg of the flight—Denver to Chicago.

Are you married, a reporter asked Capt. W. F. White.

"I was," was his lugubrious reply.

Pamela, met by J. Stuart Rochford, general manager of Rochford Happiness Tours which picked up the $1,700 plus taxes tab for her trip, whisked Miss Martin to a loop hotel for a welcome breakfast and that longed-for shower she has been promising herself since Sunday.

The record Miss Martin broke was something over 99 hours, set by Maj. Horace Boren, an official of Braniff Airlines.

The United Air Lines plane was 20 minutes late out of Denver, due to a snowstorm, but Capt. White said he "revved it up" to 350 miles an hour on the home stretch. He beat the scheduled 7:25 arrival time by 14 minutes, with the aid of a tailwind.

Pamela had on her nicest smile, a burgundy suit, pink jacket, a tiny, gray feathered hat, and an orchid when she stepped from the plane to greet the assembled reporters and photographers.

Her trip began at Midway at 12:12 p. m. last Friday and took her to such romantic and far-away places as London, Rome, Cairo, Karachi, Rangoon, Manila, Okinawa and Tokyo.

Her only complaint was that it was "just a series of airports." Next time, she vowed, she'll take "time out to see the cities."

She'll get the chance. One of the promised rewards, if she broke the record—and she did—was a duplicate round-the-world ticket with stopovers.

Wants Federal Govt. Forced Out of Business

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rep. Thomas B. Curtis (R-Mo.) says the federal government should be forced to get out of the many businesses it has set up under the guise of military procurement.

Curtis, in a speech before a St. Louis organization last night, branded these business operations as "military socialism."

He charged the military is "attempting to completely duplicate our distribution system in this country."

Curtis cited military post exchanges, which he said duplicate department stores and also mentioned the large coffee by the military.

"The military should set up a system of accurate cost accounting," he said. "When they do, we can show that private enterprise can do the job better."

"If we can get the military out of business and return business to private enterprise, we can cut the cost of maintaining the military organization," Curtis said. "In doing this, we will broaden our tax base by returning business to hands that are taxable. And after broadening the tax base, we can reduce taxes."

Survey of Sam-Ae Children's Home, Seoul, Korea, For Which SAFB Has An Air Lift

The following is a survey of the SAM-AE CHILDREN'S HOME in Seoul, Korea, as written by its South Korean director. This survey was included in the letter from Sgt. Meredith Taylor, in Korea, to his wife, Argente, in Knob Noster, in which he urged that clothing be sent for the war orphans in the SAM-AE Children's home.

(See story on aid from SAFB and this area on Page 1 today)

The survey is reproduced here in the broken-English written by the South Korean. We feel that it best tells of the heart-breaking struggle the South Koreans are having to feed and clothe and educate the children left homeless by the recent war.

A SURVEY OF THE SAM-AE CHILDREN'S HOME

"This Sam-Ae Children's Home was established by the help of the United Nations' Civil Assistance Command, Korea (UNCAK), and of the some American unit last October, 1951.

"At the time we have taken care of approximately one hundred war orphans whom took over from some other orphanage unfortunately closed up by Seoul City Government and UNCAK, Seoul, team.

"Sooner we have had contained one hundred more children who were taken in this home by American soldiers and Korean army, from time to time Korean officials, mostly from combat area and the refugee camp, who had come from North Korea.

"Approximately half of these unfortunate children came from North Korea, and all of these were completely orphans, who lost their parents by this terrible war. Of course, most of the children were in malnutrition or sick, especially suffered infectious disease in North Korea.

"By the great help of the UNCAK, and of the other organizations we have occupied Japanese temple that is Korean national property borrowing for permanent charitable work. Fortunately, this building was decided permanently, by Korean Government.

"During last one year, we have repaired this building and purchased much needy item such as sewing machine and hair clippers etc.

"Among many problem we have, most biggest one is financial difficulties. We have 350 children and 130 of them have entered public primary school now. At the beginning of this new term we have sent 80 more new pupil to the primary school. And comparing with last first situation, health situation of these children was improved, and no patient have left from the earth. Still we have great problem about finance situation because we have none any financial foundation, and if we continue this situation in future, the 350 homeless children now adequately cared for once again will become neglected and miserable.

"Therefore, we have tried, very desirously, in obtaining land and machine which give us a self supporting financial basis. The children will be taught how to operate the machines. Thus, while learning a trade, they will also be aiding themselves financially. But, any possibility for this sincere our desire, we could not obtain yet.

"This home locating very proper place, calm educational surrounding and landscape, quite convenient in transportation. These 350 children has been classified 13 group by the age and the educational grade is taken care by every group teacher who is mostly women.

"For the staffs payment, we could not paid for 2 months, though each person's pay is very low. We are eating not rice, but barley some time too.

"The most of the children has gone school daily, and these children separated 7 public primary school in this Seoul city, same district with this home, and almost 13 of these children was highly recommended from school authorities.

"Rest of the school children is

Vicksburg Still Seeks Tornado Dead

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—Tornado battered Vicksburg, still buying its dead, dug into a new area of town today in the search for victims of the twister that killed at least 30 persons.

Rescue crews moved shovels into a Negro residential area near the National Military Park. It was the first search of the area where the tornado spent its diminishing fury after striking the city three times.

The 25-million-dollar tornado caused President Eisenhower to declare Vicksburg a disaster area, making it eligible for emergency aid from the federal government.

Mrs. Katherine Howard, Eisenhower's personal envoy, toured the stricken city yesterday and told citizens it might be some time before actual loans can be made.

The Small Business Administration, a federal agency, designated Vicksburg and 15 counties in Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas disaster areas, eligible for rehabilitation loans.

The SBA set up an emergency loan office in cooperation with state and local officials.

Six burials of tornado victims were scheduled today. A dozen were held yesterday.

The body of 17-year-old Kay Warren, honor high school student, was dug from the ruins of her father's sporting goods store yesterday afternoon, nearly 48 hours after the black funnel roared in from the west across the Mississippi River.

Workers labored all last night by searchlight in the store's ruins, attempting to find another body, believed to be P. G. Hester.

An army of 3,000 citizens and soldiers began their third day of probing the ruins of more than 900 destroyed and damaged buildings.

Pick and shovel crews loaded dump trucks at the rate of one a minute.

Schools remained closed.

The main business district, hardest hit, remained off-limits except to salvage crews. Civil engineers warned that many of the seemingly unscathed buildings on Washington Street were hovering precariously on their foundations and might tumble any minute.

Contractors Must Pay For Blasting Stump Into Open Convertible

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Two contractors yesterday agreed to pay $174,000 in damages because a heavy tree stump was blasted right into an open convertible, seriously injuring two West Virginia youngsters.

The freak accident happened last June as workers were blasting stumps to clear a way for the new West Virginia Turnpike near Ponda.

The contractors, Morrison-Knudsen Co., Inc., and Ralph E. Mills Co. of Kentucky were defendants in suits brought in behalf of the injured, Glenna Douglas, 15, of Cheyan and James Russell Silman 17 of Dry Branch.

In 1909, food cost a family of five in New York City about $2 a day.

DEATH TOLL RISES IN VICKSBURG TORNADO — This leveled city block in Vicksburg, Miss., was gay with Christmas shoppers and movie-going children before a twisting, death-dealing tornado roared in with hammer blows. This aerial view shows all that was left of a business and residential area in the city after the storm which took at least 30 lives and injured 170 other persons, causing an estimated $25,000,000 damage. President Eisenhower has designated Vicksburg as a major disaster area. (NEA Telephoto)

Graham Prediction Comes True, Divorce Ends Strange Marriage

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The marriage of Texas playboy-heir Shepherd (Abdullah) King and Egyptian dancing girl Samia Gamal ended yesterday in divorce just like evangelist Billy Graham said it would.

But the ever-happy King, who changed his religion to the Moslem faith to marry the voluptuous Nile charmer, still could crow a little. Graham predicted the marriage wouldn't last six months. It endured about two years.

Sweet Springs Firm Robbery Monday Morn

SWEET SPRINGS — The Hall Motor Company was robbed sometime early Monday morning and investigating officers stated they believed the culprits were teenagers. About $25 in change was missing from a cash drawer and peanuts and candy were also taken. Entrance was gained by breaking out a window in the rear of the building. Sheriff Paul Piper and Deputy Charles R. Caslet investigated the robbery.

Mitchell Feels Demos Will Win House Margin

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Stephen Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, says his party will win a 40 to 50-seat margin in the House next year on a platform pegged to national security, fair treatment for the farmer and lowering the cost of living.

These, he said, are among the "vital national issues, particularly on domestic affairs, which sadly need buttressing." He also cited "apathy towards federal housing, the Republican failure to meet the increasing plight of small business and inability to set up foreign trade on a sound basis."

While forecasting the big House margin, Mitchell told a news conference last night he's feeling about the outcome in the Senate, where the Democrats now have more members than the Republicans.

He said he's basing his forecast on information from experienced political observers.

"The Senate elections pose a harder problem. I am hopeful we might win control of the Senate, but I am not as confident as for the House. It's a matter of arithmetic since we have just so many Senate seats at stake," he explained.

The Republicans now control the House by a 219-215 margin with 1 independent. The Senate has 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans and independent Wayne Morse of Oregon.

Mitchell is in Philadelphia to supervise the completion of plans for a weekend conference of Middle Atlantic states party leaders.

Mitchell also announced the selection of Stanley Woodward, ambassador to Canada in the Truman administration, as the party's new treasurer.

Husband's TV Response Is Basis for Divorce

SALEM, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. Ruby A. Cavanaugh, 29, of Lynn, testified in Salem Probate Court yesterday that after her husband objected to her watching television he tossed an ax through the TV screen.

Judge John V. Phelan took her petition for divorce on grounds of cruelty under advisement.

Today's Women—

Since Age of 5, Mary Picken Has Been Sewing Authority

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

At the age of 5, Mary Brooks Picken hitched her wagon to a needle and thread—and it has carried her to heights of fame and fortune.

This bright-eyed, pink-cheeked lady probably is the world's foremost authority on sewing, dress-making and all varieties of needlework. She considers a bundle of health and peace of mind of the average woman than a medicine cabinet. Says she:

"If more women had to do things by hand, as our mothers and grandmothers did, there'd be less business for psychiatrists."

This age of automatic house-keeping is a wonderful thing, but it also has its drawbacks, in the opinion of Mrs. Picken. It's likely to leave women with too much time on their hands. And if those hands can't pick up a bit of fancy work or a pair of socks to darn, there's trouble ahead.

Mary was born on a farm near Arcadia, Kan., and before she was old enough to go to school she learned not only sewing, but also spinning and weaving, from her grandmother, who lived on an adjoining farm. She estimates her grandmother walked an average of 20 miles a day when spinning—back and forth, throwing the yarn over the spinning wheel from the distaff in her hand.

Mary was married before she was 20, widowed before she was 23, and embarked at once upon her needle-and-thread career. Her 91st book, the revised edition of the Singer sewing book, has just been published, containing everything any home seamstress might be likely to want to know, including how to darn, mend and embroider by machine, how to use patterns, how to get professional finishes on dresses and suits, how to make slipcovers and drapes, rugs and bedspreads, children's clothes and gifts.

Since home sewing is the fastest-growing hobby in the country, she has a wide audience.

She's firmly convinced that every woman in the country should be able to do some form of sewing, knitting or other needlework, for therapeutic purposes. She says:

"Whenever I feel nervous or upset, whenever I get to feeling sorry for myself or have a problem to work out, I get out one of my bundles of sewing. I always have something handy, all out and waiting. After I've worked on it awhile I find my nerves relaxed and usually my problem's solved."

Since the death last year of her second husband, G. Lynn Sumner, Mary has had opportunity to test her theory, and it has worked. Grief-stricken and lonely, she turned to her sewing when the going got tough, and the needle and thread saw her through.

Thief Steals Money, Including the Dollar Truman Autographed

CINCINNATI (AP)—A year ago today Harry S. Truman stopped in Cincinnati and bought a paper from Mrs. Alcen Knerim, a fellow Democrat.

She put the dollar he gave her into the cash register before she recognized the former President and before she noted he had autographed it.

Last night a thief snatched her purse. It contained $101 plus "Harry's dollar."

"It's the dollar President Truman signed that I feel so awful about," she told police.

Church Choir Predicts Money Theft Musically

Claims Churchill Tried to Keep Ike From A-Bomb Speech

LONDON — Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express claimed today that Prime Minister Churchill tried "with all the eloquence of his command" to talk President Eisenhower out of making his atom bomb speech to the United Nations.

And when Churchill saw his protest was in vain, the Express said in a dispatch from Bermuda, he set about using his influence to tone down the wording as far as possible.

The independent, pro-empire paper said Churchill was "greatly upset" when shown the first draft of Eisenhower's proposed speech to "He took the line that as first tests were in vain, the paper's correspondent, Rene MacColl, said, "He pointed out that since the NATO forces in Europe are being equipped with atomic artillery and other atomic weapons, the bluntness of the speech might be construed as a threat," MacColl reported.

Police Find Headless
Body of Missing Girl,
Search for Companion

PAMPLICO, S. C. — The decapitated body of a 15-year-old high school sophomore girl was discovered in a shallow grave near here last night.

A grisly search for the head of Betty Clair Cain and her missing companion centers about dragging operations today at the fish pond two miles from where the officers found the girl's body near the Pee Dee River.

Sgt. Roy Williams of the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division said a bloody undershirt found in a tobacco barn near the pond led officers to believe the girl's head and possibly the body of Harvey Allen, 22, the girl's companion, may be in the water.

The shallow grave was uncovered about 6 p. m. Part of the girl's undergarments were gone and a coat she was wearing when she left home about 7:30 p. m. Sunday night was missing. Sgt. Williams said a heavy club believed used in the slaying was near the grave.

Rates In County

ST. LOUIS — St. Louis County officials want the Missouri Public Service Commission to take another look at telephone rates in the county.

Supervisor Luman F. Matthews today instructed county counselor John J. McAtee to study the situation with a view of obtaining a readjustment of rates in direct negotiation with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Suburban Webster Groves and Kirkwood were converted from manual to dial telephone service Sunday. This increased the monthly telephone bills for many customers but made it possible for them to dial many additional numbers without paying a toll.

But under the new system set up by the firm some customers in those two communities and in another suburb, Ladue, complained to county officials they now have to pay as much as 15 cents for calls that used to be free.

County Court

Wins a Battle With the Beavers

ST. JOSEPH — County court members have won their battle with the beavers—they hope.

War was declared three months ago when the court decided to straighten Bee Creek, South of St. Joseph west of Highway 116. The beavers decided against the plan.

County crews dug a new channel. By the next morning the beavers had constructed a dam across it.

A few sticks of dynamite removed the beavers' masterpiece. In less than a week the beavers had constructed a new dam across the straight channel. Water flowed again in the old crooked channel.

A larger amount of dynamite was used this time. Again the dam was removed.

However, the beavers were not yet satisfied. They waited a few weeks and then constructed a third dam. This one was much stronger than the first two dams.

County members were just as eager as the beavers. They placed a third dynamite charge in the dam. This time the dynamite blasted away not only the dam but also part of the bank on each side of the new channel.

"That did the trick," said Judge Don Gilpin today. "The beavers have surrendered, I think."

Wilson Asks More Funds For Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kilgore (D-W.Va.) today labeled as "a change in front" an announcement by Secretary Wilson that the Defense Department will ask Congress for funds to build toward a 127-wing Air Force by mid-1956.

Wilson's statement that "including naval aviation, we now have the most powerful and effective Air Force in the world" was hailed by Senators Potter (R-Mich.) and Welker (R-Idaho) as an answer to critics of Eisenhower administration cuts in Air Force funds.

"We now have an Air Force with planes in the air instead of on the drafting boards," Potter declared.

Welker said in a separate interview he believes "the President and the secretary of defense have shown what can be accomplished by sound planning and effective organization work."

Declaring that "we must continue to have air power second to none," Wilson said in an Indianapolis speech last night the Air Force will have 115 wings by next June 30 and can reach an interim goal of 120 wings sooner than expected. A wing ranges in size from 30 long-range bombers to 75 fighters.

Kilgore said the proposed request for funds to build toward 127 wings seemed to him an almost complete about-face. Earlier this year, the administration abandoned at least temporarily the 143-wing goal which had been set under the Truman administration and slashed Air Force fund requests by five billion dollars. Wilson said the Air Force would still have all the money it could spend effectively.

"This is a change in front which I am very glad to see," Kilgore said. "We will see when Wilson and others come before the Senate appropriations Committee whether this proposed Air Force buildup by Congress in training funds may have depleted manpower reserves to the point where there won't be sufficient pilots and trained crews to take care of an increase in the number of wings."

Wilson gave no figures on money requests but Welker said the secretary of defense probably won't have any difficulties in getting the full amount of requests.

Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbot said last night the United States plans "eventually to assist Japan in rebuilding her air power to provide a measure of her own security."

In a speech in New Orleans, Talbot said that as a consequence of the treaty demilitarizing Japan the U. S. Air Force had to assume the air defense of that nation.

Man Who Knifed Wife to Death Is 'Most Wanted'

WASHINGTON (AP)—An escaped gum-chewing convict who knifed his second wife to death in Chicago last March was put on the FBI's "10 Most Wanted" list today.

He is Peter Edward Kenzik, 46, also known as Peter Edward Miller, who has a criminal record dating back 30 years. When he escaped from the London, Ohio, prison farm in 1948, he was serving a 1-to-20 year sentence for a 1941 knife assault on his first wife at Toledo, Ohio.

The FBI said Kenzik did his first time behind bars at Ohio State Reformatory, as a sex offender, and that he has since served sentences in Ohio and New York State on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to burglary.

Kenzik showed up at his second wife's apartment in Chicago last March 13 and, according to police reports, a violent argument ended with her fatal stabbing.

Kenzik is described as a constant gum-chewer and a frequenter of prize fights, baseball games, taverns and dance halls.

He is of medium height and weight, with blue eyes and light brown hair and has a scar across the bridge of his nose.

"Kenzik's previous record of frenzied knife assaults together with the fact that he may presently be armed with a knife and gun makes him an extremely dangerous fugitive," the FBI said.

TARGETS FOR ENEMY ATTACK—The cities indicated on Newsmap above have been listed by the Federal Defense Administration as critical targets for possible atomic raids. The organization omits military installations and sites of atomic plants for security reasons, as they would represent prize targets to an enemy.

Bob Thomas In Hollywood—

Rudolph Friml Plans Unique Celebration of 69th Birthday

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Rudolph Friml, last of the great operetta composers, plans a unique celebration for his 69th birthday today.

1. He'll bicycle some 15 miles from his Hollywood hilltop home to a beach club at Santa Monica.

"People think I'm crazy, but I like to beat the red lights," he says.

2. He'll take an endurance swim in the club's pool. Last year he swam continuously for 2½ hours.

"I wanted to see how Florence Chadwick could do it," he says.

I went to Friml's Chinese-style home, expecting to see quite an old party. After all, hadn't he been a student of Anton Dvorak in Czechoslovakia and the composer of such classics as "Rose Marie," "The Vagabond King," "The Fire-Rose" and "The Song of the Flamingo"?

And wasn't he the remaining member of operetta's big three, the others being Victor Herbert and Sigmund Romberg?

Mrs. Friml, a Chinese beauty, ushered me in and the composer was listening to a piano piece on one of his three recording machines. He sat down to the piano and accompanied himself in a "Czechoslovakian" rhapsody, which he said he composed as he went along. It was a feast of melody.

He played another spiritual song and a lighter one designed for Jeanette MacDonald—"something she can sing in Las Vegas."

He explained that he had recently written some added songs for MGM's third version of "Rose Marie."

He also reported he had just returned from Berlin on an abortive mission to write a show. He is soon leaving for Hong Kong.

McCarthy Resumes Hearings on Army Radar Laboratories

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) resumed public hearings today in an effort to show there has been espionage on radar secrets at the Army Signal Corps laboratories at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens told a news conference Nov. 13 an Army inquiry had turned up no evidence of successful spying at Ft. Monmouth in recent years. He said he thought there had been some several years ago.

McCarthy has said the Ft. Monmouth hearings by the Senate investigations subcommittee heads will show "what espionage means."

He has said one woman questioned secretly had without question committed espionage at Ft. Monmouth.

There is enough water in the world to cover the earth to a depth of two miles if all the surface were level.

go up like this." And he glided quickly up the stairs, two at a time.

He showed me a large box in which banks of electric lights induced the seat to pour. Also a reducing machine. In the bedrooms he pointed out ultra violet lamps that kept the air pure at all times—"not even smog can get in."

He demonstrated his head standing technique, then reclined on his back and rolled to a standing position without using his hands.

"Try it," he urged. I did, and rose with a slight charley horse.

"Look," he said, raising his trousers, "these are the legs of a ballerina."

We also talked about the musical theater and he said he found the shows of recent years lacking.

"They are full of smart songs," he commented sadly, "but that is all. There is no melody and no good voices to sing them. It is too bad. I hope the operetta will return so the new generation can learn what real singing is."

Merry-Go-Round McCarthy Toned Down Hot Blast At Dulles And His Law Partner

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Inside story of the McCarthy-Eisenhower controversy is that the Wisconsin fire-eater had planned to come out in his last statement shooting from the hip with a devastating blast against John Foster Dulles and his law partner, Arthur Dean, now in Korea trying to negotiate peace.

It was placid, roly-poly Len Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, who finally went to McCarthy's office and persuaded him to call off the dogs. Hall had to mingle threats with persuasion before McCarthy agreed.

What Senator McCarthy had got hold of was the record of Arthur Dean as a vice president of the Institute of Pacific Relations. This is the group which published Amerasia and in which certain Communists infiltrated during the war.

McCarthy was ready to publish certain records which according to some interpretations might have linked Dean with U. S. appeasement toward Red China. He had prepared a rip-roaring statement blasting the secretary of state and his law partner, now in Korea.

When Len Hall heard about this, however, he went to see McCarthy. At no time did he lose his temper. It was always Joe and Len. However, Len told Joe that if he went ahead with his blast, he, Hall, and every Republican leader would issue statements against him.

Hall argued that McCarthy's attacks on Eisenhower were merely helping the Democrats. He also promised that if McCarthy would tone down his statement, the Republican leaders would drop their battle against him.

McCarthy agreed. He even submitted his greatly watered-down statement to Hall. Hall read it, and, while he didn't approve it, he said he didn't think it would offend the White House too much.

Hall then went to the White House and reported to Ike. When he left he was confident he had arranged a truce. But he hadn't counted on one thing. McCarthy put an extra kicker in his statement. The typed statement was so milk-toast that the Baltimore Sun correspondent Phil Potter asked: "Senator, could this be described as a perfumed note to the administration?"

That was before McCarthy added the kicker—which was verbal. He urged that the American people write letters to the White House urging that Ike change his foreign policy regarding China. And the White House, despite any reports to the contrary, just didn't appreciate this a bit.

McCarthy Vs. Eisenhower

Prior to the Brownell blast at Truman in Chicago, the White House had not intended to fight McCarthy openly, but to take the ball away from him, thus push him out of the headlines. . . . White House aides claim that Attorney General Brownell's controversial Chicago speech on Harry Dexter White was not aimed at ex-president Truman but at Senator McCarthy. The Eisenhower administration wanted to demonstrate that it could handle the Communist issue without any help from McCarthy. . . . Brownell's speech was carefully reviewed by presidential press secretary Jim Hagerty the morning before its delivery, but unfortunately, Hagerty didn't sense the implications of the sentence reflecting on Truman's loyalty. As a result, the speech backfired, and Brownell was forced to call on G-Men J. Edgar Hoover to bail him out. . . . actually, the White House didn't want to rile Truman nor involve the FBI in politics. The whole idea had been concocted as a master strategy to neutralize the irresponsible senator from Wisconsin. . . . After Senator McCarthy's radio blast accusing the Eisenhower administration of "perfunctory" diplomacy, Secretary of State Dulles was so furious that he interrupted President Eisenhower's Thanksgiving vacation with a phone call to Augusta. . . . when Ike returned to the White House, he found not merely Dulles but his aides angry as hornets over McCarthy's challenge to the president's leadership. Hence, the double-barreled Dulles-Eisenhower blast at McCarthy.

Washington Whirl

President Eisenhower's statement that every American has the "right to meet his accuser face to face" was made off the cuff. Before delivering the speech, Ike told Jewish leaders: "I am not going to use a script. I want to speak straight from the heart." . . . In spite of its sincerity, the statement backfired in Washington, where more than 300 employees have been dismissed by the Eisenhower administration with no opportunity to face their accuser. . . . furthermore, government security officers admit privately that they have no intention of changing their procedure. They hope the public will forget what the president said. . . . This is another example of what propaganda chief C. D. Jackson calls "bad orchestration." He has been up over the "different tunes" played by administration spokesmen, who are supposed to be members of the same orchestra. . . . for example, GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall said Communism would be an issue in the 1954 elections; President Eisenhower said it shouldn't be. . . . Attorney General Brownell declared that ex-president Truman knowingly promoted a Russian spy; Ike said it was "inconceivable" that Truman had knowingly promoted a spy. . . . Mobilizer Arthur Flemming announced that the Soviet Union could drop an H-bomb upon the United States "without warning"; Secretary of Defense Wilson claimed that Russia won't have a "deliverable" H-bomb for three years. . . . Secretary of the Air Force Talbot announced in Madrid that the U. S. intended to send A-bombs to Spain; Both Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Defense Wilson planned to pull some of its troops out of Europe; the President told a press conference that the U. S. has no such plan. . . . these are a few of the discordant notes that have Jackson holding his ears and crying for more "harmonizing."

Wooling of Red Masses Difficult But Enticing Goal

By Bruce Blossat

During World War II, the Allies made a great point of trying to divide the German people from Hitler and his Nazi Party. We hoped by this device to show ordinary Germans we did not blame them for Hitler's crimes, and to draw them away from firm support of his regime.

Yet the policy was never entirely clear and was always hotly debated. Our insistence on "unconditional surrender" seemed to hold out little for average Germans. And after we overran Germany itself and uncovered the horrors perpetrated at Belsen, Buchenwald and other camps, we were in a mood to deal out harsh treatment from top to bottom.

Nevertheless, a persuasive case can be made out for trying to separate a hostile, dictatorial regime from its people, particularly when there are strong reasons to believe they are being victimized and are inclined to be friendly with free peoples.

Evidence that such an effort may be worth while with the Russians has come recently from more than one close observer of the Russian scene.

For example, in a new book whose very title conveys his theme, "Our Secret Allies," Eugene Lyons, a former U. S. correspondent in Moscow, declares that the Russian people are on our side in the conflict with the Kremlin.

To make his point, Lyons delves into Communist history in an attempt to show that the Bolshevik revolution was never a peoples' revolution, but totalitarian in purpose from the start. He insists the Russians have always resisted where they could.

If we act as if the Russian people were our genuine allies, he adds, then war is less likely because the Kremlin will know its forces would be unpendable on the battlefield. Should war come in spite of all, millions of Russian soldiers would go over to us, since they would know our victory would be their own.

Lyons goes further and says the Cold War can't be won unless we are in alliance with the Soviet people.

The value of this work is that it reopens the debate on what our attitude should be toward subject peoples in the Soviet Union and other enslaved lands. But Lyons does not tell us what we should do now to make effective a policy of alliance with these peoples.

Even if we should agree that such a policy is wise, we still would have the extremely difficult task of figuring how to carry it out. Getting into contact with the Russians on a broad scale would be the neatest trick of the decade.

Sleeping Sickness Is Rather Rare Disease Of The Brain

By Edwin P. Jordan, D.

A worried mother has recently written me, saying that her daughter has encephalitis, and asking for a discussion of this subject.

First, the word, encephalitis, means inflammation of the brain. There are several kinds, but one of the best known is sometimes known as American sleeping sickness because many of its victims show a tendency to excessive sleep, sometimes for months or even years at a time.

The "sleeping-type" of encephalitis was first described about 1917. It often appears in small epidemics. The most constant symptoms during the early stages are headache, disturbances in sleeping, and disturbances of vision, such as blurring of sight or seeing double. Other nervous signs may also appear, but those mentioned are the most common.

After passing through the acute stage, a chronic phase is recognized. This is a progressive condition and the outlook is not good. There is unfortunately no serum or drug which can be used with invariable success to combat this condition.

A somewhat similar situation exists with the other forms of brain inflammation although in some of them complete recovery can take place.

Horses also contract at least two forms of encephalitis and certain kinds of mosquitoes carry the virus infection from these animals to human beings. In the horse-spread type of the disease, the aim is to destroy all the mosquitoes which might become infected from the horses and to protect people living in the vicinity from bites by these insects.

All forms of encephalitis are caused by viruses which are tiny living bodies too small to see under the ordinary microscope. These viruses have not yet been very well classified although most of them have been seen by special methods or grown outside the living body.

Have Strange Names

At present they carry such strange names as Japanese type B encephalitis, St. Louis type encephalitis, Australian X disease, and Russian spring-summer encephalitis. Some of these may be caused by the same virus, but research workers are still somewhat uncertain about their relationships.

Fortunately, all forms of encephalitis are rather rare except in occasional epidemics. Prevention and treatment leave much to be desired and, consequently a great deal of research work on this subject is now going forward.

Q—I have a sebaceous cyst in my breast and lately it has been a little sore and painful. Should this be removed?—Mrs. G. E.

A—Ordinarily it would be considered desirable to remove this surgically unless the doctor has some specific reason for not doing so.

Q—I have intense itching under the arms and in the groin, and any other place where there is moisture on the skin. I am now using an ointment which takes the skin off, but doesn't stop the itch. Have you any suggestions?—Mrs. J. A.

A—First, stop the ointment which takes off the skin, but doesn't relieve the itch. Next, go to a physician or skin specialist who can tell you whether the cause is ringworm or something else, and get from him the proper medication which will relieve you without causing a possibly dangerous irritation of the skin.

Q—My daughter has a two-year-old baby who comes in close contact with his 10-year-old brother-in-law. The 10-year-old boy has asthma, and I wonder if this is contagious.—Mrs. L. H.

A—Asthma is not contagious and you need have no fear on that score.

We Might Just as Well Be Realistic About This!

The World Today— Ike Prepares for Big Year

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower returns here, from the Bermuda conference and his talk on the atom at the United Nations in New York today, to prepare for one of the most important years of his life.

His Bermuda meeting with the British and French and his discussion of the atom were parts of the foreign affairs half of his job. He returns here to dig into the other half: domestic problems.

This first year in office for him and his Republicans might be considered a year of grace. It was pretty generally understood the President and his party needed time to get their feet on the ground.

But two years should enable them to show what they can do or intend to do. They meet their first big test of public approval or disapproval in next November's congressional elections.

By that time Eisenhower may have had so much success in foreign affairs that the voters will give the Republicans enthusiastic endorsement, in spite of any lapses in domestic matters.

But, judging from the stubborn attitude of the Russians, it seems unlikely Eisenhower can pull very many rabbits, if any, out of his foreign hat.

More likely his administration by the end of 1954, midway through his four-year term, will have to be judged largely on what the Republicans have done at home, or left undone.

The two biggest immediate tasks facing Eisenhower when he gets back here will be finishing work on the budget, and preparing his State of the Union message, both of which must be presented to Congress in January.

Some of the budget, perhaps most of it, is already completed. But the President and his advisers still must consider the most far-reaching item in it: how much money for national defense?

A great many things depend on the size of the total budget, which is the money the administration thinks it should spend in the fiscal year beginning next July 1: taxes, for instance, and whether the Republicans will be able to keep their promise to balance the budget.

It is in the State of the Union message that Eisenhower will ask Congress for help and approval in carrying out the program which, he has said several times, will be

THE ANGELS FELL

XXVI

BEN HELM'S mild brown eyes shifted alternately from me to Martha. He took his pipe from his mouth. "That's no animal."

"Animal?" Martha arched her brows. "Oh, you mean my kitten," she said brightly. He strode out to the hall. He had seen each of us come from there after he had heard us ascend stairs, so he had no trouble finding the way down to the cellar.

"He's going to be considerably embarrassed," Martha said.

Below us there were muttered voices and then a rather long silence and then feet coming up the stairs.

They stopped in the hall. I heard Hannah say tonelessly: "Please don't make a fuss. Just drive me to my car."

I stood up. Through cigarette smoke Martha was looking toward the hall. I moved forward. Helm was saying, "Miss Rahn, you don't just forget a thing like this?" Then I was in the hall with them.

Hannah's eyes slithered past my chest and away. She wore her checked raincoat, belted and buttoned.

"She can't get away with this," I said.

"She!" Helm's pinched, slightly hooked nose over the tight mouth was like the beak of a bird of prey, but his fury was controlled. He was doubly dangerous because he would never give way to temper. "What about you?" he snapped. "She?" The curved pipe moved in his hand. "What's that for?"

He was speaking to Martha. She had taken my heavy automatic out of the pocket of my raincoat that I had left in the living room. Her own gun was in the cellar, in her coat.

"You're not taking her away,

Mr. Helm," she said crisply. "I'm afraid I didn't think quickly. I should have stopped you from going down to the cellar."

"Uh-huh," Helm said. "I wondered what made people like you two do such a thing. What's the story?"

I told him.

Hannah said nothing. "You see," Martha said, justifying the gun to show that she meant to use it if necessary.

"I see that she ought to be spanked," Helm told us disgustedly. "For your information, she was in Washington. I phoned Washington shortly after you left Rahn's house this afternoon."

He clicked the pipe against his teeth. "Uh-huh. I like to know what kind of people I work for and what they're doing."

Hannah Rahn opened the door and went out into the light. Helm looked after her, his mouth angry and bitter. He uttered the proper consoling words, the meaningless words, that my boy would be all right, and then followed her.

I shuffled into the living room and I picked up my hat and coat. Martha handed me my gun. "A lot of good it did," I said.

THE basement apartment was dank and cold, and so was I. The radio was on loud the way I had left it to fool my shadow.

Fully dressed, I stretched out on my bed. I thought of pulling a cover over me, but that would require too much effort. My eyes closed. . . .

A hand touched me. Opening my eyes, I saw slender pink-tipped fingers on my arm, saw a woman's profile no higher than my reclining head.

"Dina," I muttered.

I came fully awake and saw that she was not Dina.

Hannah Rahn knelt at the side of my bed. Her raincoat was down; her hair was streaked back from her brow and over her ears. "I'm so terribly ashamed," she said and hid her face on my shoulder.

I raised my wrist to look at my watch. Ten minutes after one. I had slept an hour and a half, and the phone hadn't rung.

Her hand lay on my chest. She spoke with her face against my shoulder. "I drove home, but I didn't go into the house. I sat in the car, so ashamed that I—I had to come back and tell you how terribly sorry I am."

"Because you didn't get the briefcase."

"You won't believe me when I say I care a great deal for you."

"You showed me tonight," I said with a bitterness that almost choked me.

THOUGHT Willie Shad was responsible," she was saying. "I rushed home by plane to see what I could do to persuade him to let your son go."

"Have you got much influence with gangsters?" I said scornfully.

"I hardly know him, but the briefcase is not important to him. He wanted it merely as a favor to—some people. When I arrived home this evening, Father pointed out that nobody to whom the briefcase meant so much could be involved in the kidnapping. So that left Dina."

I said bleakly: "Wasn't I supposed to have murdered her?"

"That was only a notion. It seemed to me that if Dina was hiding or about to run away from this part of the country, she'd want desperately to see her son."

Hannah fumbled with the two top buttons of her raincoat. A hand at each button "I—phoned you, pretending to be the kidnaper."

I stood up and took three steps, as far as I could get away from her without leaving the room.

Her voice was behind me, saying, "It was a terrible thing to do, but that briefcase means so much to me. I've worked so hard for Father's career."

Suddenly the phone rang.

Notes From Public Library— Biography of 1953 People In News Added to Shelves

"Current Biography 1953," with complete life stories of 350 persons prominent in the news of 1953, has been added to the reference collection of the Sedalia Public Library.

Princess Margaret Rose of Great Britain; Krishna Menon, Indian delegate to the UN; Gordon Grant, well known marine artist and author; Edwin H. Land, inventor of the Polaroid and of the Land one-step photographic process camera; Thomas B. Costain, author of "The Silver Chalice"; baseball's Mickey Mantle and Roy Campanella; Harvard president Nathan M. Pusey; and Dame Sybil Thornicroft, British actress are among those to be found in the 1953 Current Biography yearbook.

Sixty-six women, including Lady Churchill and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower are among the newsworthy persons included in "Current Biography 1953," as are approximately 80 individuals from outside the United States. Represented in this yearbook are people in some 30 varied fields including art, agriculture, aviation, business, diplomacy, education, government and politics, military, literature, journalism and publishing, theater, religion, philosophy, science, social science, social service and technology.

"Current Biography 1953" includes superseding articles about people still prominent in the news whose biographies first appeared in the early, now-out-of-print yearbooks. Among these are Winston Churchill, Chiang Kai-shek, Sir Winston Churchill, John Foster Dulles, Albert Einstein, Oreta Culp Hobby, Clara Booth, Luce, Bing Crosby, Shirley Booth, Henri Matisse, and Leopold Stokowski.

Each sketch, the product of extensive research, includes a photograph and references to additional material, is presented in informal, readable style. This is the fourteenth yearbook since "Current Biography" began publication in 1940, and the first under the editorship of Marjorie Dent Candee, free lance writer on travel and maritime subjects, and a frequent contributor to the travel pages of the New York Times.

Bargain Hunters In N. Y. Stymied By No Newspapers

NEW YORK —Pity the poor bargain hunter in New York. She's as frustrated as the merchant with a store full of Christmas goods and no newspapers in which to advertise his wares.

Stores report traffic through their aisles is holding up well despite a newspaper strike's choking off of advertising.

But bargains are going begging. The shopper doesn't know about them or where to find them. They just traipse around from store to store in hopes of lighting on one with all the delight of a Balboa on his peak glimpsing the Pacific. The woman who has decided it'll have to be another necktie this year for Uncle George will come to the store anyway. But the shopper the merchants count heavily on getting this time of year is the one lured into a particular shop by having read of a bargain. While there she usually does some more shopping in other lines. And there's how Christmas profits are born.

The strike of New York's major newspapers may not affect national retail figures noticeably, but it's causing New York merchants to revise their early fall predictions that this year would be their best Christmas in a sales season. They're still hoping to break even with last year, which was a record.

But many are saying the final figures may now show a considerable and unanticipated drop—unless an early end to the strike lets them flood the newspapers with ads aimed at the last-minute holiday shopper.

The strike hurts the more because December is the outstanding sales month in most merchants' year. They count on it to make, or break, their year for them profit-wise.

New York merchants also have been hamstrung by most unchristian-like weather. The spring type temperatures just make the store Santa's suit look itchy instead of Christmasy.

Aim to Hit Houseflies In Intestines

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A new scientific attack on the housefly, aimed to hit him in the intestines, was reported today to the Entomological Society of America.

First steps in the offensive are to find out how the fly converts his food into energy and cell-building material. When the facts about housefly digestion are determined, insect fighters will know more precisely about where and how to do the hitting.

One of the new findings is that houseflies have pepsin in their systems. Pepsin is an enzyme which helps meat-eating animals to digest protein.

Dr. Bernard Greenberg of the University of Kansas reported the pepsin discovery. Up to now it has been taken for granted, Dr. Greenberg said, that insects do not have pepsin.

The new finding means that there is less difference between flies and the higher animals than previously realized. It means also that the housefly may be vulnerable to new and different forms of chemical attack.

Another similar finding was reported by Dr. W. Chepur of the Canadian government experiment station at London, Ontario. Dr. Chepur said he had determined the steps by which houseflies break down carbohydrates. This involves a whole series of chemical changes, one or more of which may constitute an invitation for some other scientist to utilize some simple substance as a lethal weapon against the pest.

These and related researches have been brought about by the realization that DDT and other new compounds are not going to exterminate the housefly. Flies have become increasingly resistant to these chemicals.

In another report to the society, Dr. George C. Decker of the Illinois Natural History Survey said the battle against insects is far from won.

Despite the new chemicals, Dr. Decker asserted, the total weight of insects produced each year exceeds the weight of all other animal life produced in the same time.

Dr. Decker said insects did more to reduce the yield of corn in central and southern Illinois this year than did drought. The drying of lawns and pastures sometimes has been attributed to drought when the real cause was insect damage, he asserted.

Three Elderly Sisters Will Be Given Frst Trp to Metropolis

WHEELING, W. VA. (AP)—Three elderly sisters who've never been in a big city will be the toast of the town today.

Wheeling city fathers will give the royal treatment to the Huffman sisters, Lou, 73; Belle, 70; and Viola, 67. They have lived within 25 miles of here all their lives but have never visited a metropolitan area.

After being picked up in a new convertible at the Belmont County, Ohio, home, the sisters will be whisked through a day's activity of getting the keys of the city from Mayor Charles J. Schuck, being interviewed by radio and television, and having lunch with the Rotary Club.

It's Wheeling's way of doing a good turn for the day.

Begin Digging the Well For G. R. Water System

GREEN RIDGE—W. C. Schnell and sons of Booneville moved some of their well drilling equipment to Green Ridge last week and will begin to drill the deep well for the city water system this week if the weather permits.

The site of the well is west of the D-X filling station operated by Victor Ward.

Mr. Schnell and sons have rented the J. C. Close building on Main Street and will reside there while at work in Green Ridge.

Bids for the water distribution system will be accepted until Dec. 9, after which a decision will be made on the various bids.

ROUGH TRIP TO WATER—Movers ease backyard-constructed craft through alley between Minneapolis houses enroute to Mississippi River. The craft came out without damage.

Finds His Son Dead, Stuffed In Car Trunk, Police Have No Clues

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—George Renfro, who came here yesterday hunting a son he hadn't seen in two weeks, found him in the trunk of an auto, shot to death.

The victim was William Delmer Renfro, 26-year-old unemployed Madison County farmer. Police said after the back of Renfro's head was torn away by a shotgun blast, the body was stuffed in the victim's own car.

The elder Renfro made the discovery after visiting a grocery to check on the son's whereabouts. When he came out of the store, he noticed the auto parked on the street.

Police said an acquaintance of Renfro's son had tipped the father to the car's whereabouts.

The murder had police baffled today. "We're working on this case without any clues," commented Lt. Stanley Hadley.

Leopard Tries Second Escape, Bites Zoo Attendant, Is Shot

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The mate of Oklahoma City's celebrated leaping leopard which touched off a three-day safari following his escape from the Lincoln Park Zoo in 1950 tried the same thing today, but her freedom was short-lived.

An attendant was attacked and severely bitten before the fugitive was shot and killed by Zoo Director Julian Frazier within a half hour after she dashed from her cage into a clump of bushes. The grounds were deserted except for zoo personnel.

Frazier fired once from a 12-gauge shotgun and dropped the beast. The injured attendant, H.S. Alsop, was treated for bites and a heavy scratch. A cage door which failed to click shut at feeding time was blamed for the breakout.

Some Believe American GIs Are Red Slaves

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Pentagon officials think it is quite possible that some Americans captured in Korea are alive and being forced to work for the Communists behind the Iron Curtain.

Periodically during the Korean War American intelligence agencies heard such reports and made every effort to track them down.

Defense Department officials say they cannot declare flatly that the Chinese and Korean Reds failed to return or account for all Americans they captured, because the Communists never made complete reports on prisoners and refused to permit independent investigations.

But one official, after reading the statement of a returned Japanese prisoner of World War II that he had seen Americans in a prison near Moscow, put it this way today:

"It is quite possible that some American boys are digging uranium in Siberian mines—if we could only prove it."

This source recalled in an interview that the Russians held and are still holding German and Japanese military prisoners they captured in World War II.

The Defense Department now lists about 7,500 American servicemen as missing in Korea. About most of these men, the Pentagon says frankly that it has no information whatsoever. But the Army has said about 600 were once believed to have been captured.

Nails Closet Shut, Trapping Sleeping Stranger Inside.

BALTIMORE (AP)—When George Cox found a stranger asleep in his closet yesterday, he got out his tool chest and nailed the door shut. Then he called police.

A 28-year-old New Yorker, John Craddock, emerged after the last nail was removed and explained that he was only looking for his aunt.

He said he had come to Baltimore with a friend to visit his aunt, had lost both and somehow entered Cox's house, walked into the closet and fell asleep under a pile of clothes.

Magistrate E. Everett Lane fined him $15 for disturbing the peace and suspended the penalty on condition he "leave town right away."

Chandler Told Players Not To Meet Frick

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler counseled the major league players' representatives on their pension rights and advised them not to go into the Atlanta meeting with Commissioner Ford Frick. The Associated Press learned today.

This new development in the bitter pension dispute between the players and club owners came to light today for the first time only hours before the National and American League executives met to make important decisions regarding players' demands.

The 16 player representatives at their special meeting in Atlanta last Wednesday, telephoned Chandler at his Versailles, Ky., home for advice before deciding whether to meet with Frick.

Chandler, in an answer to a question, informed the players that all radio and television money of the World Series and All-Star Game belong to them and rightfully belonged in the pension fund. He advised them not to meet with Frick without the presence of their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis. The players followed his advice, walking out on the commissioner when he refused to allow Lewis to attend the meeting.

National League player representative Ralph Kiner, who earlier had denied he was present at any meeting in which baseball's Executive Council had passed a resolution to consider ending the pension plan, amended the statement last night.

The slugging Chicago Cub outfielder said from his home in Palm Springs, Calif., that the resolution proposed with which he was in agreement was to name a committee to see if it would be possible to turn over the pension plan to the players.

"When we got to Atlanta," Kiner declared, "we found the resolution had been changed somewhere along the line."

Kiner's version was in sharp variance with that of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, who presided over the now pivotal Sept. 22 meeting. Frick, No. 1 figure in the game, insisted both major league player representatives — Kiner and Al Reynolds of the New York Yankees—together with Lewis, were present at the meeting. The commissioner pointedly added that Kiner and Reynolds voted in favor of the resolution. Frick said:

"I stepped the voting once and told them they were going to hurt the pension plan, but they continued the discussion and voted unanimously, 6-0. I have only one interest, to save the pension plan. My only motive was to protect the plan."

J. Walter O'Malley, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who introduced the resolution, backed up the commissioner, adding that a check of the minutes would prove that all three were present and voted for the resolution.

"There is no question but that Kiner and Reynolds voted in favor of the resolution," O'Malley said. "Kiner is a fine, clear-thinking young man who is being sincere in his efforts to carry out his obligation. But it could be he has the wrong approach."

"Certainly no one wants to be indifferent to the players and their wishes. And they have every right in the world to retain a lawyer."

But in trying to create doubts in the minds of the public on the veracity and integrity of the club owners is not going to solve the problem. It would have been so much better to have approached the problem with dignity."

The owners were almost certain to reject the players' demands for a boost in pension benefits from $50 to $80 for five-year men and from $100 to $150 for 10-year men.

Kiner said the players based their requests for increased pensions on the consideration that more money would be available in 1956 when the plan would normally be renegotiated under the five-year setup. He said in two years the $1,700,000 still owed from the original 4 1/2 million for prorated payments on old ballplayers would be paid up. That, he said, would leave between $750,000 and one million additional money available each year from the World Series and All-Star Game television money.

"This money has to go somewhere," Kiner said. "We want it to go into the pension fund and not into the owners' pockets."

Rocky's Manager Makes Break With Boxing Sector of N. Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxing's most important social note of the season comes in the form of an engraved card from Al Weill, manager of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, announcing that he has moved his offices into a hotel suite over on Manhattan's swank East Side.

In moving his and the champion's enterprise into a neighborhood where steaks start at $7.50, Weill obviously is making a clean break with the Broadway-Eighth avenue sector which for a quarter of a century has been the boxing capital of the world.

Browns Teach New Players Their Tricks

CLEVELAND (AP)—A flabbergasted rookie once put his finger on one important reason for the success of the Cleveland Browns. This young player had been in the training camp of another professional club before coming to the Browns' camp. He scarcely had dirt on his cleats when he came into the Browns' camp.

"The other club assumed I knew all the fundamentals, and went on from there. But the Browns don't take anything for granted. They teach you their way of doing things right from the start."

That is only the half of it. For the Browns' staff, one season begins where the last one left off. They make a year around job of it.

Coach Paul Brown is at the Pro Bowl and the Senior Bowl in January, attends the Winter meeting of the National League, takes a long Florida vacation, and then becomes General Manager Paul Brown.

The off season goes like this for the coaching staff, all of whom played under or assisted Brown at Massillon, Ohio, high school, Miami University, Ohio State and Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

End Coach Howard Brinker, who also is chief scout, works at lining up draft choices, and prospective draft choices for the future.

Guard Coach Fritz Heiser also is on the road a good bit, checking on players and contracts. Wilbur (Weeb) Eubank, tackle coach and talent scout, makes long campus tours, talking with college coaches and players.

Backfield Coach Blanton Collier, specialist in pass defense and play diagnosis, makes the famous Browns' charts. He spends weeks and weeks with a movie projector, running through game films hundreds and hundreds of times and studying each frame of the film minutely.

For each player, he grades every play of every game on such things as initial stance, charge, follow through, "got man," and "why."

Garrett Leads All Passers Of '53 Grids

NEW YORK (AP)—Blond Bob Garrett, Stanford senior, stands alone as major college football's leading forward passer of 1953.

The quarterback from San Marino, Calif., turned in a performance that kept the passing title on the West Coast for an unprecedented fourth straight year, but Georgia's Zeke Bratkowski established some impressive career records.

Garrett paced the field with 118 completions of 205 attempts, 1,637 yards gained and 17 touchdowns. He threw according to NCAA Service Bureau statistics released today. His percentage of 57.6 was tops among those who had tried 150 or more aerials, and was surpassed by only one player who threw less frequently.

Garrett did all this despite the fact Bratkowski saw action in 11 games while he played in 10. In the three preceding years, westerners Don Heinrich of Washington won the passing crown twice and Don Klosterman of Loyola of Los Angeles once.

Bratkowski, who attempted the most passes—224—of which he completed 113 for 1,461 yards, wound up with two all-time career records and one near miss.

His total yardage of 4,863, gained for three varsity years surpassed John Ford's 4,736 compiled over a four year period at Hardin-Simmons (1947-50). And his 734 attempts mark him as the "passing" player of all time.

The Georgia "Brat's" 360 completions since the start of the 1951 season rank him second to Klosterman in that department. Klosterman hit on 368 aerials in 1949-51. Bratkowski is the only player who has ever completed 100 or more passes in three consecutive years.

On the minus side Zeke had 68 of his tosses intercepted in three years. That wipes out the old record of 56 set by Saimry Baugh at Texas Christian in 1934-36.

In yardage, Garrett's pursuers were Bratkowski, Larson (1,431) and Columbia's Dick Carr (1,367). In touchdown passes Carr was runner-up with 13, and the Lion quarterback also had the best yards-per-completion figure, 17.75. He was eighth in completions with 77.

Percentage-wise, in the 150 or more attempts category, Lamar McLean of Arkansas was second to Garrett with 52 per cent, completed 78 out of 150. With a minimum of 100 tries, Don Rydaich of Utah had 60.9 per cent and Pete Vann of Army 55.8 per cent.

McLean was seventh nationally in individual passing, scoring eight touchdowns and passing for 1107 yards.

Indians Rally Fails To Stop Southern Illinois Win, 55-50

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—The Cape Girardeau Indians rallied sharply in the last quarter after a slow start but wound up on the short end of a 55-50 basketball count with Southern Illinois University last night.

Southern Illinois built up a 34-24 halftime lead. Cape rallied to cut its handicap to three points before the Illinois team got organized again. Ted Henderson scored 23 points for Cape Girardeau.

Hoosiers Rip Through Kan. State 92-66

NEW YORK (AP)—Did someone say Indiana, last year's NCAA champion, might be in for a rough season?

The Hoosiers, who had their troubles licking Cincinnati only three days ago, came back last night and coasted to a 92-66 victory over hapless Kansas State, one of the three teams to beat them a year ago.

Only today, the nation's sports writers and sportscasters voted Indiana the No. 1 team in the annual Associated Press preseason college basketball poll.

Maybe the score against Cincinnati was what the Hoosiers needed because they stepped on the court in Bloomington and ran up an 11-2 count in just three minutes and Coach Branch McCracken, who had the woes before the game, stopped worrying.

Six-foot-10 Don Schlundt hit for 16 points in the first quarter and after that State never was in the game. Schlundt wound up with 25 points, although, like most of the first team, he played only about a half.

Duquesne and Oklahoma A&M rated Nos. 3 and 4 in the AP poll, both won. But the Aggies had their troubles with Texas and it wasn't until the final 20 seconds that Tom Fuller connected with a push shot to put his team in front 58-57 over St. Francis College of Loretto, Pa.

Minnesota, which is figured to give Indiana and Illinois a run for the Big Ten championship, had its difficulties, frittering away a 17-point first-half lead against Tulsa. But the Gophers came back to eke out a 62-60 victory when Chuck Mencil dunked a 20-foot, one-handed shot with 20 seconds left.

A fellow can't hold his records for any time at all these days. Saturday night, Kentucky's Cliff Hagan, poured 51 points through the hoop against Temple—an all-time high for a Southeastern Conference player.

Last night, Louisiana State's Paul Pettit went into action against Louisiana College and hit for 60 points as his team scored a chilling 128-74 victory.

In a major upset, Vanderbilt's young team outscored Duke, one of the powers of the Atlantic Coast Conference, 71-66. Duke ran up more than 100 points in each of its first two games, but Vanderbilt apparently was unawed. Dan Finch was the leader of the uprising with 22 points.

Missouri opened with a 75-43 triumph over Drake; Marquette came on fast in the second half to stop Creighton 92-73; Georgetown won its third straight 93-83 at the expense of Mount St. Mary's; Niagara licked Toledo 79-62, and De Paul turned back St. Norbert 90-47.

Braves Hopeful Of Getting New Fielder-Hitter

NEW YORK (AP)—Although shoved into the shadows by the player-owner dispute over the pension plan, hopeful managers were trying hard today to pull off at least one trade at the major league meetings.

The Milwaukee Braves, eager to land a hard-hitting outfielder to replace the aging Sid Gordon, made overtures for New York's Bobby Thomson. But when the Giants asked for southpaw ace Warren Spahn in return, Milwaukee manager Charlie Grimm remarked: "That took care of that."

The Braves, however, still were hopeful of coming away from the meetings with an established outfielder just as the Giants are determined to wind up with a top ranking pitcher.

Rumors continued to flow thick and fast but nobody appeared close to completing a swap.

The Orioles still are hot after first baseman Eddie Robinson of the Philadelphia Athletics. The Chicago White Sox and New York Yankees are trying to get A's right-hander Harry Byrd.

Cleveland hasn't given up in its attempt to lure catcher Clint Courtney from Baltimore but the Orioles insist on outfielder Larry Doby in exchange. Detroit is hot after outfielder Jackie Jensen from Washington but the Senators want a left-handed pitcher in return.

The only deal completed yesterday was the sale of utility infielder-outfielder George Metkovich by the Chicago Cubs to the Braves for the waiver price of $10,000.

Bulldogs Win Third Cage Game of Season

KIRKSVILLE (AP)—The Kirkville Bulldogs won their third basketball game of the season last night, beating the Central College Eagles of Fayette, 84-79. Willard Smith led Kirkville with 21 points, one more than Central's Tom Bergerson scored.

JAYHAWK CAGERS READY FOR OPENER—Kansas University cage coach, Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen, left, whose Big Seven champions last year lost the NCAA title by one point to Indiana University, warms up his Jayhawk co-captains B. H. Born, center, and Allen Kelley, right. Springfield Bears Take Texas Western SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Springfield Bears racked up their second straight basketball victory of the season in beating Texas Western, 82-52, last night.

Springfield led throughout the game as Art Helms set the scoring pace with 19 points. Jerry Anderson helped with 15.

The same teams play here again tonight.

Indiana Tops Nations' Cage Teams as No. 1

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's experts today picked Indiana's Hoosier Hot Shots to repeat their 1952-53 success as the country's No. 1 college basketball team.

In a preseason poll by The Associated Press, 148 sports writers and sportscasters gave Indiana the nod over Kentucky's returning Wildcats, back in action after a year's suspension.

The vote was as close as an overtime game, with the Hoosiers pulling it out, 1,264 points to 1,194. A first-place vote was worth 10 points, second was 9 and on down the line.

The Wildcats had 52 first-place ballots to the Hoosiers' 48, but strong second and third-place support gave Indiana enough points to overcome the lead.

Duquesne ran a good third with 834 points and Oklahoma A&M and Kansas were fourth and fifth in a close race, 650 to 622. Rounding out the first 10 were La Salle, North Carolina State, Kansas State, Illinois and Louisiana State.

Four teams picked in the top 10 in last season's final poll at the end of the NCAA Tournament don't appear anywhere in the first 20 this time. These are Seton Hall, No. 2 last season; Washington, No. 4; St. John's of Brooklyn, No. 7; and Notre Dame, No. 10.

Kentucky is the only complete newcomer to the top 10. The Wildcats were spanked by the NCAA and then barred by the Southeastern Conference for the 1952-53 season because of overemphasis in their basketball program.

Seven new faces appear among the preseason second 10 although most of them are familiar basketball powers of past years. They are Minnesota; Oregon State, Wyoming, Dayton, California, St. Louis and Oklahoma City.

The leading teams (first-place votes in parentheses):

1. Indiana (48)
2. Kentucky (32)
3. Duquesne (15)

Big 7 Teams Has Shaky Season Start

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Big Seven conference basketball teams are not off to a juicy start with non-conference opponents.

The Big Seven was soundly thrashed by two of its three foes last night.

Kansas State, regarded as the strongest threat to defending champion Kansas, was trimmed 92-66 by Indiana at Bloomington.

Colorado lost its first start to Colorado A&M, getting the little end of a 54-44 count at Boulder.

Some face was saved by Missouri at Columbia, however, as Coach Wilbur Staup's Tigers started their campaign with a 75-43 victory over Drake's Bulldogs.

Indiana, the defending NCAA champion, had too much class for Kansas State as the Hoosiers' great Don Schlundt led the assault with 25 points. It was the Big Seven's third loss in as many outings with Big Ten members this season.

The 16 point shooting of Jesse Priskow was about the only encouraging factor in Kansas State's play. Indiana got off to an 11-2 lead and that was the ball game.

Missouri came up with a balanced scoring attack in dropping Drake. Bob Reiter, 6-foot 8-inch senior center, paced Missouri with 19 points as the Tigers went in front 10-1 in early minutes of the game.

Colorado A&M hit better than 40 per cent of its shots in beating Colorado. Colorado had a cold 22 percentage.

Eight games remain in the Big Seven slate this week.

Kansas, which lost the national collegiate title to Indiana last March, will begin the new grind against Tulane in New Orleans Thursday night.

All seven teams have dates Saturday night.

Civil Rights Suit Dropped In Arkansas

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—A $30,000 civil rights suit against the Class C Cotton States League was dropped here yesterday bringing to an end a controversy that started last spring when Hot Springs hired two negro baseball players.

Pitcher Jim Tugerson, who filed the action, asked his attorney to seek dismissal of the suit. Tugerson recently was bought by Dick Barnett of the Dallas Eagles in the Texas League.

The suit, filed last July, charged that the league violated Tugerson's civil rights by not allowing him to work because of his race. It also contended that his contract with the Hot Springs Bathers was violated.

The controversy, which threatened to split the three state Cotton States League, began when Hot Springs hired Tugerson and his brother, Leander. Five of the league members threatened to withdraw if Hot Springs was allowed to play the Tugersons.

The batters forfeited one game against Jackson when Tugerson made his lone appearance here. However the forfeit later was disallowed by minor league boss George Trautman.

Tugerson's lawyer here, James Wood Chestnut, in a letter to Federal Judge John Miller yesterday asked that the suit be dismissed. Last September Miller dismissed the civil rights portion of Tugerson's suit.

In a letter to Chestnut, Tugerson said that he once made the statement that "I wanted to play a higher grade of baseball—AA or better." He said "Now that I have the opportunity, I am dismissing the suit with no hard feelings toward anyone."

CSL President Al Haraway at Helena, Ark., said he was very happy that the suit was being dismissed, but had no further comment. Haraway ordered the forfeiture when Tugerson came here to play.

Sacred Heart Loses To Jeff City Saints

The Sacred Heart Gremlins, varsity and "B" teams by the St. Peter's Saints at Jefferson City Sunday. The varsity lost its game by a 72-55 score while the Junior Gremlins team was stopped 41-29.

The basketball game started out a rough affair in the first quarter with the Grems emerging with a two-point lead of 10-6. But the second quarter the Saints moved ahead one point and led at the half time 34-33. The score in the third stood Saints 50-42 and the final 72-55.

Wendell McKee carried the load for the Grems with five baskets and five three throws for a total of 18 points. Leon Moore led the Saints with five and eight for a total 18 points.

In the "B" game saw Louis Vetter of the Saints leading the field in scoring, getting 18 points while Bob Cook and Dorsey Martin both had five points for the Sedalians.

The next game for the Sedalians Heart teams will be at the local gym with Knob Noster on Friday night.

US Soccer Team Ranking High In British Play

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—A team of United States soccer players is plugging away at the top of an English amateur league—and soccer-mad locals are blinking their eyes in amazement.

The team causing all the fuss is the Burtonwood Gunners, formed from United States Air Force men at the Burtonwood base in North-England.

They have played 23 games and lost only twice. In league games they boast a 100 per cent record. They have scored 95 goals against 38 in nine league matches.

"We started the season as a novelty," Capt. Ted Zitzick, personnel officer at Burtonwood, said. "Now we're a threat and in a strong position to win the championship of our division—and no longer a novelty."

Zitzick, who comes from Hanford, Calif., said they also run a reserve team and that's undefeated in six matches.

The Yanks take on local factory teams and their success has fired the imagination of other Americans at the base.

"About 40 or 50 boys travel to each match—and if we have no game many of them, now rabid soccer fans, go to another soccer match," Zitzick said.

Zitzick said the team started playing last season. Then it branched out and went into a league.

"Men with soccer experience formed the nucleus of the team. Now we are getting plenty of converts," he said.

"We are playing an average of three games a week—and that's tough going. Now our fame has spread and we have received invitations to play games in Scotland and Ireland."

Report K of C Tries to Buy Yankee Stadium

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Globe-Democrat reports a national Catholic fraternal organization is trying to buy Yankee Stadium in New York for a price "in excess of" 1 1/2 million dollars.

The newspaper's first report that the Knights of Columbus had completed the purchase brought a quick denial from the head of the organization.

This report "is not true," said Luke E. Hart, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, from New Haven, Conn.

The newspaper, in a later edition last night, said in a copyrighted story by Sports Editor Robert Burnes, the organization is negotiating to buy the home of baseball's world champion New York Yankees.

Burnes said in his story under the plan the Yankees would take a 75-year lease on the stadium, paying about $125,000 annually in addition to all insurance and maintenance costs.

Of the original report, Hart said: "It is true we have been discussing the purchase of the stadium as an investment purchase but the deal was not made."

In New York, Yankee General Manager George Weiss said, "No comment."

Gragg Pushes Culver-Stockton to Victory

THE WEDDING IS OFF—Mrs. Estelle Auguste, wealthy widow who last week announced her intention to marry Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, tells Associated Press reporter Watson Simms in her Waldorf-Astoria Hotel suite that "the marriage is definitely off." Dempsey had no comment. Mrs. Auguste, a resident of Palm Beach, Fla., returned to Florida.

Indict Former Carnival Girl For Kidnaping

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Tommie Dene Doughty, 17-year-old former carnival show girl with a mother complex, was indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury on charges of kidnaping a 5-month-old Indiana boy.

She was accused of a crime which she admitted to the FBI when arrested near Bokchito in southern Oklahoma Nov. 9, at her parents' home.

The child was recovered the same day unharmed. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stammer, of Evansville, Ind., had hired Mrs. Doughty as a baby sitter.

She took young Richard Duane Stammer on a wild flight across four states, by bus and hitch-hiking rides.

Mrs. Doughty remained in jail under $20,000 bond. She said she took the child to "replace one of my own."

Hen Snoozes In Oven When Stove Is On

HALTWHISTLE, England (AP)—Wives in a community housing project here say the stoves are so faulty a neighborhood hen snoozes in their ovens when the fires are burning.

"The ovens get only warm enough to keep the hen comfortable," said a petition from 38 complaints, to the rural council last night. They brought along the unscorched hen to prove it.

Missouri Dems Expect to Regain Congress Seats

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Confident Missouri Democrats are counting on Republican "blunders" to retain their seven congressional seats and perhaps even pick up two of the four now held by the GOP.

Some of the more optimistic party members even foresee a possible clean sweep of Missouri's 11 seats in next year's congressional elections.

That would be one of the state's major political upsets since the Democrats would have to defeat Rep. Dewey Short, the Galena veteran, and Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, of the GOP's St. Louis County stronghold.

Mark G. Holloran, national committeeman for Missouri, tempered the optimistic hopes somewhat with his observation that Short and Curtis "will be tough to beat." But he quickly added the party is prepared to make an all-out effort to replace the two Republicans with Democrats.

Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell of the Democratic National Committee, and Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) set the stage for the party's 1954 hopes. Each peeked away at the record of the Eisenhower administration in major addresses at the banquet.

Mitchell said the major issue in next year's elections would be Republican failures to fulfill 1952 campaign promises.

Douglas, terming them the "crucial" congressional elections, said a Republican victory would hold a future of increased taxes, "the further cutting of our national resources, the weakening of social security and a continued fall in farm prices."

Nothing In T-H Law Bars Employer From 'Disloyalty' Firings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing in the Taft-Hartley labor law bars the firing of workers for "disloyalty" to their employers, the supreme court ruled today.

The 6-3 decision applied to Charlotte, N. C., television technicians who had distributed leaflets critical of their station's TV programs.

Justice Burton, writing the court's majority opinion, said: "There is no more elemental cause for discharge of an employee than disloyalty to his employer."

Justice Frankfurter wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justices Black and Douglas joined. The critical hand bills were passed out during a dispute at station WBTB over a collective bargaining contract. They attacked the quality of the station's program and facilities but did not make any reference to the labor dispute.

EISENHOWER MUSEUM SCENE—Nearing completion in Abilene, Kansas, President Eisenhower's home town, is the museum that will house the Chief Executive's war trophies and mementoes, valued at a million dollars. The structure is being built by the Eisenhower Foundation, which expects to open it to the public in 1954. On June 4, 1952, the President laid the cornerstone for the museum and later in the day opened his campaign for Republican presidential nomination.

Weak, Losing Personality Causes Loss of Front Teeth

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (A)—Would you like to develop a forceful, winning personality?

A lot of people would. But there are some who would be glad to settle for a forceful, losing personality. Win or lose, they would like to have any kind of personality that had some impact.

Count me among them. Some people are born with the power of decision. The rest of us acquire it. We acquire it from others. We are always ready to meet any emergency—if there is someone around to make up our minds what to do.

We are the guys who can't say no. We would rather have our teeth knocked out than return a negative answer. In fact this happened to me several times in grammar school. The class bully would ask me:

"Do you want to fight?"
Well, I would look at his doubled-up fists, and think, "I can't tell this fellow no, no matter what he asks me. On the other hand, if I say yes."

And while I stood there, trying to make up my mind what to do, bang!—out went another of my front teeth.

Later in life this same inability to say no has got me into trouble with ladies.

"My, did you ever in your life see anybody who looks older than I do today?" a lady asked me just the other day. And she almost bit me when I told her, "oh, sure—several."

That is the trouble with people who have strong winning personalities. Whether you agree or disagree with them, they end up by getting mad at you.

Being afflicted with a weak, losing personality is a terrible handicap in this world, a world in which self-assertion wins respect, whether the cause in which it is put forward is worthy or despicable.

You are the prisoner of people with greater will power because you can't, for some strange reason, offend them. Clothing salesmen, bus drivers, waiters, and doormen are brushed aside by the strong-willed. But they dominate me completely. And how they can tell at a glance that I am like a door with a sign saying "Push" is beyond me.

I have met scoundrels who could go into a strange bank and cash a $100 rubber check with no trouble at all. But if I went into the bank where my wife has traded for years and offered a $1.50 check signed by John D. Rockefeller Jr. himself, the cashier wouldn't cash it until I went home and got proof of my identity.

"Are you going to stand for this nonsense?" I'd be saying inside myself. Well, I am the kind of guy who can't even say no to himself. So I'd end up by apologizing to the cashier for being such a nuisance.

Panhandlers can tell this intricate indecision at once. They never ask me for a dime. They start by demanding a dollar, and I feel like a bum because I negotiate them down to a quarter. The same way with stray dogs. They follow me home on rainy nights for a hand-out, and they would stay there the rest of their lives except our landlord has a forceful, winning personality that overawes dogs—and me, too.

My wife has often commented on my jellyfish character. "You know, there is a kind of strength in weakness," she said once. "I notice you sometimes get your way just by waiting."

That is the secret satisfaction of all of us weak-willed folk. When the people with forceful, winning personalities get tired of pushing us around and sit down to rest, well—then we flow around them like water toward our own goals. The only way to get what you want in this world if you can't say no is to wear out those of impatient strength with your own endless power of indecision.
